West Virginia in the Next Campaign, The Philadelphia Press, always a sage clous observer of events, points to the growth of Republican sentiment in the two Virginias and urges the Republican party to cultivate the strong tariff senti ment in these States.

The Press gays that now is the time t

Our always esteemed and level-headed contemporary is right as usual. West Virginia has clearly shown the trend of her thought. She has already turned her back on the false god of free trade and, with a little encouragement, will cut entirely loose from the party of free trade.

The Republican party cannot do better than to turn its attention to West Virginia, which is about ready to turn to the Republican party. There is still an educational work to be done. West Virginia Republicans are doing what they can thomselvee, but the friends outside of the State can aid us materially.

It is no secret that each party helps its own in States in which the one or the other determines to go in to win. We have had a long and hot fight in West Virginia, and the Republicans of this State are able to point to results. With a The Republican party cannot do better Consolidation of the Branches of the Bloomington & Western System.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 16.—The third step in the reorganization of the Indianapolis, Bloomington & Western system, and the consolidation of the various branches, was taken yesterday by filing articles of the consolidation of the Springfield & Western Railway Company and field & Western Railway Company and the Indianapolis & Western Company, the lines running from Springfield, O., to Pe-bic III

The joint capital stock is $13,324,000 and the directors are Austin Corbin, Philipadelphia; O. W. Fairbanks and O. E. Henderson, of this city; John & Glover, Urbana, Ill., and J. B. Mason, E. L. Stewar and Will Beckwith, Danville, Ill.

The complete reorganization of the system will be made in January, and then it will be known as the Columbus, Indianspolis & Western.

The Father of the Normal School.

Hon. James W. Bradbury is S4 years of age. He graduated at Bewdoin in 1825, Henry W. Longlellow, Nathaniel Hawthorne Jonathan Oilley and George B. Cheever being among his classmates.

It can be as a without lear of contradiction that Mr. Bradbury was the father of the normal school system having opened a school for the training of teachers soon after his graduation from college, at Effingham, N. H., in 1835. Mr. Bradbury, then a young man, was county attorney for Kennebec county. He was a presidential elector in 1814, at the election of President Polk. In 1846 Mr. Bradbury was elected United States Senator for the torm ending March 4, 1853. We believe this was the last Damocratic Senator Maine over had. That was the time when Web.

ster. Clay, Calhonn, Dongias, Jefferson Davis, and Cass were in the National Senate. Mr. Bradbury occupied the next seat to Jefferson Davis. This was the time when slavery was being agitated, and Mr. Bradbury took an active part in all de-bates.

The city of Chicago gets its gas from several corporations which it is now proposed to consolidate under the "trust" form. Public opinion is against the combination, and the suggestion has given rise to a movement in favor of public ownership of the sources of supply.

ownership of the sources of supply.

The Chicago Tribune, which takes this side of the controversy, argues very strongly that the lighting of a city, as well as the supplying it with water, is properly a matter of complete municipal control. The Tribune holds that the city should furnish gas for light, beat and power, and eyes that in Chicago, it can be done at a person of the modern targe. While Obicago is agitated over this question, Wheeling, which has long had a practical monopoly of the illuminating business, admits a formidable competitor in the electric light, gets nothing for the privilege and scarcely listens to the suggestion that she is doing comathing which she may have consion to regret. She admits this aggressive rival at a time when her own illuminating service is not giving natisfaction either as to quality or price.

This burner is in use by many of the most exacting people of Wheelines, who will fully recommend its use.
